Let T be a finite, simple, undirected graph of at least 2 vertices. Prove that if T is connected, but removing any edge from T results in an unconnected graph, then T is a tree. Hint: See exercise 4.1.20.